August General Meeting Extends Retirement Age, Rejects Theater Project Funding Bid

The spacious and renovated auditorium at John Jay High School on Seventh Avenue is the Coop's new home for the monthly General Meeting.

By Frank Haberle

The Coop's August General Meeting was held in the vast auditorium of John Jay High School. The well-attended event saw two proposals debated by the attending members. In the first, the Coop's retirement program was modified to extend the retirement age for members an additional five years. In the second, members voted against a bid to have the Coop donate $3,800 to support the production of the play Sweat by Lynn Nottage at the Irondale Theater Company. Other highlights included coordinator reports from Joe Holtz (finance update), Ann Herpel (settlement of the National Labor Relations Board case) and Joe Szladek (recent power outages and their impact on the Coop).

Modifying the Coop Retirement Age

Proposed by PSFC member Ruth Willner, the first agenda item asked the Coop to extend the maximum retirement age, and to adjust the required years of membership accordingly. The maximum age would be extended from 65 years of age to 70 years of age. A 65-year-old will be able to retire if they've been a member for 20 years; 66 years old, 18 years; 67 years old, 16 years; 68 years old, 14 years; 69 years old, 12 years; and 70 years old, 10 years.

Questions included an FTOP worker who once took leave from her work to care for an ill family member and was informed that those two months would be added to her time of retirement. Was this official Coop policy? General Coordinator Ann

Fall Harvest Still Strong Despite Climate Change

By Heidi Brown

News about our changing climate is getting increasingly grim: Hurricanes growing in intensity; wildfires more destructive; and low-lying towns now reckoning with the inevitability of rising sea levels. Even our food is affected. According to the federal government's 2018 Fourth National Climate Assessment, climate change is rapidly affecting farming conditions around the country. By 2100, it could be too hot to grow walnuts, and water may be too scarce to cultivate almonds in California, which currently produces 80% of the world's supply.

Because of its close relationships with farmers and suppliers around the country, the PSFC is, in some ways, on the front lines of farming and climate change. According to our produce buyers, though, the situation is not exactly apocalyptic—but it's still challenging, especially for producers. "We certainly notice the effects of extreme weather events every year," says PSFC Produce Buyer Ken Macdonald. "Long periods of rain, droughts, early and late Herpel responded that if the member had used banked FTOP she would not have lost time. Another member asked, "If somebody wants to join the Coop at the age of 65 or 70, they are still going to have to work shifts well into their 80s. How are they going to do shifts?" Ruth responded that everybody should work and that the work doesn't have to entail physical labor—there are opportunities to work in the office, at cash registers or in other needed areas.

"As a committee we conduct forums about NAFTA and other trade policies with activists and researchers reporting their findings, but we haven't had many people come. We wanted to do something different."

—Susan Metz

In discussion, Edie, an attorney by trade, stated that "As this is drafted, this doesn't make much sense as 'retirement guidelines.' The proposal doesn't include official terms. If we adopt this it could be problematic as presently stated." Several members asked about the Coop's policies toward disabled and/or infirm people. General Coordinator Ann Herpel said the Coop has a policy that people with permanent disabilities can provide documentation and can join as nonworking members. "Right now the total of nonworking members is 16.6 percent," Ann added, "of whom 7 percent are retired members."

After an agreement to make adjustments to the wording of the proposal, the proposal was re-read and voted on. The proposal was approved by a majority of members.

Collaboration with Irondale

Two members of the PSFC International Trade Education Squad (ITES), Susan Metz and Willie Naess, proposed the Coop grant ITES $3,800 and 20 work slots to collaborate with the Fort Greene-based Irondale Theater Ensemble Project to produce a "music-stand reading" of Lynn Nottage's Pulitzer Prize-winning play, Sweat, about NAFTA's effect on U.S. workers. If awarded, the play would be presented free for up to 250 Coop members each of two nights, October 22 and 28.

As Susan said, "As a Committee we conduct forums about NAFTA and other trade policies with activists and researchers reporting their findings, but we haven't had many people come. We wanted to do something different. We are asking the Coop to provide us with a small grant to support this theater production." Susan added that as the Coop is a $55 million dollar business, $3,800 was a very small amount to ask. The committee presented a two-page proposal with a line-item budget on how $3,800 would be spent, a breakout of the FTOP shift responsibilities and a schedule for the event. In a short video, Irondale's executive director and the play's director spoke of how they were looking forward to collaborating with the Coop.

Questions from the floor included member Cynthia Lawson, an educator, who asked, "I'm interested in what you perceive as social change if a couple hundred Coop members are going to see it." Another member asked, "How are you going to get that many people there—even if it's free?" In discussion, Coordinator Joe Szladek said, "I'd like to correct something—Susan says we have $55 million. This is a misconception—all the money that comes into the Coop, goes into the Coop. I appreciate the idea but I think asking the Coop to give money for a play seems like an odd investment." Another member said, "Why couldn't we ask for a $7 admission fee, rather than have the Coop put the money up front? This project is very far removed from our mission." Recording Secretary Jessie Rosenfeld said that "if Coop money and FTOP shift money are to be set aside, they should be set aside for development of other coops." Mike, an Office worker, said, "Does the Coop even have any business thinking about funding this?

What are we headed down if we do this? Think of the money involved—we have to sell $22,000 worth of groceries to generate $3,800. Why don't you start a kickstarter program instead?"

Others spoke in favor. Said one member, "I feel that we need as a Coop to think about how to extend ourselves—we live in difficult times. I support this proposal, and I would like to see this go ahead." Another added "Don't underestimate the power of the theater to educate people." When voted on, the proposal was rejected by the members.

Coordinator and Committee Reports

Prior to the proposals and votes, coordinators updated the membership on the Coop's steady financial standing, labor issues and the physical plant. General Coordinator Joe Holtz presented the most up-to-date financial statements for the Coop, providing a 24-week statement for the period ending 7/21/2019 alongside comparative numbers for 2018. The Coop's gross margin increased to 17.54% vs. 17.46% for the first 24 weeks last year, while expenses are down to 16.72% of sales, below last year's percentage of 18.06%. Sales per week were 1.76% higher than the first 24 weeks of last year. In response to a question about last year's equipment and repair costs and what we project for the year ahead,

Joe reported that the repairs focused on replacing many of the refrigeration units on the shopping floor and necessary repairs to the elevator—costs that shouldn't be repeated going forward.

Under her proposal, Ruth [Willner] stated, "You do not have to retire. You can stay on your squad. Or you can find another way to remain active."

Ann Herpel reported on the NLRB case, reading the General Coordinator's statement and assuring members that the NLRB's three-month investigation into a complaint of unfair labor practices concluded that the allegations were without merit, and that any decision to unionize remains an employee decision. [See page 6 for more on this issue.]

Joe Szladek updated members on the three blackouts over the summer and how they were costly events in terms of lost food and lost sales—overall the blackouts may have cost the Coop $50,000. Joe also provided an update on the changes to the shopping floor. "We moved things to eliminate congestion, particularly in bulk aisle and the produce aisle. The garlic is now on a shelf next to the potatoes. The seltzers are in the first end cap," Joe assured members. "So don't be freaked out if you can't find the La Croix!" ■

One proposal was approved and another was rejected by the August GM's attending members, but not without a lot of passionate discussion.

frosts, storms on both coasts, fires—these have all had an impact on the items we source from affected areas.”

“At the same time,” says Macdonald, “every year always produces some items that do exceptionally well. We have had terrific berries and melons this year, and frankly, this has been a strong year for most of our produce.”

The changes fall on the farmers to adapt. Anyone living in the Northeast will agree that our winters are now warmer, shorter and wetter; summers now feature fewer cool nights. The result is frequently more ground moisture. Extended periods of wet soil can cause a vegetable’s roots to rot; disease also finds a hospitable environment. In a 2018 paper in Climatic Change, a group of researchers noted that moisture was the most-cited reason farmers in the Northeast gave for recent crop loss.

Increased soil moisture also affects the all-important planting season: When the ground is wet well into spring, farmers have to wait to plant.

Bill Pedersen owns Pedersen Farms in Seneca Castle, New York, and grows organic asparagus, butternut squash, kale, parsley, wheat and corn on his Finger Lakes property. He sells his produce to Four Seasons, a big PSFC distributor. Pedersen told the Gazette that he has definitely already seen the effects of climate change. This year, because of coolness and rain early in the planting season, he has “many acres that didn’t get planted at all.”

Pedersen typically plants soybeans and corn on “off” years on those acres to let the soil rest; this year, those fields will have to lie fallow. The rain this year, he said, was particularly detrimental to planting, as it lasted from late April to the end of June. Plus, temperatures in June reached only into the 50s. “When you get a half-inch of rain, it’s in the 50s, plus it’s cloudy, then it rains again, the ground doesn’t dry out,” says Pedersen. This meant he wasn’t done planting his vegetable crops by July 10, as he usually is.

Over at Norwich Meadows Farms, which sells produce to upscale New York City restaurants like Gramercy Tavern and Blue Hill, owner Ziad Kurdieh agreed about the changing weather patterns. “Frosts have been later in fall and spring frosts less pronounced,” Kurdieh, whose main farming property is in Norwich, New York, noted in an email exchange with the Gazette. At the same time, Kurdieh has recently seen some winters with extreme cold—something that can harm crops even in this region of the country. To protect his vegetables from such erratic weather, Kurdieh has built dozens of “high tunnels”—structures not yet widely in use that sit over the crop rows—and is selling his know-how to other farmers in the area. This fall, Kurdieh said he’s expecting lower crop yields because of the unusually cool weather, although he declined to specify which crops might be most affected.

Like Kurdieh and many other farmers, Pedersen is adapting to the changing climate. He used to be one of the largest cauliflower growers in the state. “I grew cauliflower for 35 years,” Pedersen says, sounding wistful. “But I call it the ‘canary in the cave of climate change.’” He can’t grow cauliflower at all anymore because the unrelentingly wet conditions have left planted crops vulnerable to diseases that affect the pristine aesthetics that consumers demand from vegetables like cauliflower.

Still, the PSFC’s Macdonald is mostly upbeat. “We haven’t noticed any long-term trends as far as the availability of celery, grapes, stone fruit, or our ability to find a good plum tomato. We are certain that the challenges faced by farmers will continue, and we will do our best to support them.” ■

Hearing Administration Committee is seeking new members

The HAC performs administrative functions necessary to arrange and facilitate disciplinary hearings, coordinating with the Coop’s Disciplinary Committee and the Hearing Officers Committee.

Applicants should be detail-oriented, comfortable working by e-mail and telephone; they should be Coop members for at least one year and have excellent attendance records.

Members of the HAC work on an as-needed basis, only when hearings are required, and earn FTOP credit. Therefore these members must maintain regular Coop shifts or be FTOP members in good standing.

The nature of this work requires that all members maintain strict confidentiality with respect to all matters on which they work.

We are seeking an applicant pool that reflects the diversity of the Coop membership at large.

Those interested should e-mail the HAC at psfchac@gmail.com.

Petra Claiborne Buys Coffee

By Taylor Wofford
Americans like to think of ourselves as heavy coffee drinkers. But compared to the Scandinavians, we're veritable lightweights. The top seven consumers of coffee per capita are, in reverse order: Switzerland, Sweden, the Netherlands, Denmark, Iceland, Norway and Finland. It makes sense, then, that Petra Claiborne, the Park Slope Food Coop's most recent coffee buyer, hails from Turku, a city of nearly 200,000 on the southwest coast of Finland. In Finland, Petra says, coffee is crucial to socialization and an important part of growing up. "There would not be a case where you go into a Finnish home anywhere in the country, and they would not have a normal drip coffee machine," she said during a recent interview. "This is drip coffee. This is not fancy espresso." And every Finn drinks coffee, she says. "We drink it every other hour. Early morning, a little later in the morning, noon, afternoon, even at night. It's in our genes, maybe. It's normal that you have dinner at 7 p.m. and after dinner everyone drinks coffee." Petra began drinking coffee regularly in middle school, which is normal for Finns, she says. And, because Finnish high school can be quite grueling, students often drink coffee to stay awake to study.

But why do the Finns drink coffee at such an astounding rate? There hasn't been much formal scholarship on the subject—maybe it's just one of those questions nobody ever felt hard-pressed to answer—so I'll let Petra answer for her fellow Finns. "The most obvious explanation is that it's so dark and so cold. It's our little way of staying up," she says.

Coming to America
Petra's transition from Finland to the U.S. wasn't

Petra Claiborne, the Coop's coffee buyer, has been drinking coffee regularly since middle school.

seamless. Her first stop in the States was San Francisco. From there, she and her then-husband relocated to the East Coast. Their plan, as she tells it, was to couch-surf until they found an apartment. But one day, she says, she woke up to find her husband gone. "Two days after we got to New York, he took off. He just left."

She was in the city without a job, without a phone—at least without one that worked here—without a U.S. bank account and without an apartment. "I had nothing," she says. She could have returned to Finland then, but she stayed. "I did not want to give up," she says, "but it was the hardest time I've ever gone through."

She found herself surfing a couch that belonged to a Park Slope Food Coop member. Her host invited her to visit the Coop. She joined the same week.

"There would not be a case where you go into a Finnish home anywhere in the country, and they would not have a normal drip coffee machine."

Eventually, Petra found a place that seemed perfect. It was on 18th Street, near the YMCA where she was by then working. But being left to find an apartment alone wasn't the only thing Petra found jarring about the U.S. Soon after she'd settled in, she was involved in a bicycle accident outside the Park Slope YMCA. An ambulance took her to Brooklyn Methodist Hospital on Seventh Avenue, where she received seven stitches and was treated for a scratch on her face. The bill was nearly $10,000, she says. The fact that she might be billed after being hit by a car didn't cross her mind, she says. "In Finland, you take for granted that it's for free. They would never charge you. That was when I was like, 'You really are on your own. No one will help you if you don't have insurance.'"

She also found the people a bit difficult. Where Finns were quiet and honest, she found Americans gregarious and disingenuous. In Finland, she says, when someone says, "Let's meet up next Saturday," it's a plan. Everyone puts it in their calendars. Here, "Let's meet up next Saturday" is more of a suggestion. Plans made off the cuff are canceled just as quickly, a fact she found irritating. "I was actually offended. We had a plan!" she recalls thinking. And remembers liking the work from the beginning. She looked forward to her shifts. "I know a lot of members who come here and don't like it," she says. "They just come to do their shift, and they want it to be over as fast as possible. I loved being here for those two and a half hours."

She became a squad leader soon after and, when a Receiving Coordinator position opened up last fall, she applied and got the job.

When Cody Dodo, the Receiving Coordinator in charge of buying coffee until fall of last year, took an extended leave of absence, Petra says she stepped in to fill the gap. [Bulk buyer] Ron [Zisa] couldn't handle coffee and bulk at the same time," she says.

The Coop offers a good mix of coffees, Petra says. Shoppers can choose from high-acid varieties (which are grown high above sea level) and low-acid types (which are grown closer to the ground) in a range of roasts. Low-acid coffee tends to have a "woody, almost mushy flavor," Petra says, while high-acid coffees have a "super-ripe, citrusy flavor." Still, shoppers frequently request new and different coffee brands, she says, but there just isn't room on the shelf. "I have tons of new companies trying to come in. The demand is so big. There just isn't enough space," she says.

"I know a lot of members who come here and don't like it . . .

I loved being here for those two and a half hours."

Buying coffee for the Coop is just one part of Petra's job. The lion's share of her work is coordinating the hundreds of members who work on Receiving squads every day. Eggs, milk, yogurt, meat and other perishables have to hit the shopping floor quickly, before they spoil. Aisles have to be checked and empty shelves have to be filled with stock from the basement. can be tough, Petra says, but the recent addition of closed-circuit TVs in the Receiving room makes it easier for her to see where her squad is and direct members where they need to go. Making sure squad leaders carry walkie-talkies helps, too. But the key to a good Receiving shift is a good work ethic, Petra says. If everyone doesn't work hard, the work doesn't get done.

Petra no longer lives in Park Slope—she recently moved to Prospect-Lefferts Gardens—but she thinks she'll never leave the Park Slope Food Coop. "Even when I'm in Finland, I miss it. That's one reason I wouldn't want to move away. The Coop." ■ the lingo was different, too. Once, when someone said hello and asked her how she was, she began to tell them, until she realized they didn't actually care. This, too, was a revelation. "When Americans ask how you are, they don't actually care how you are," she says. It's not that Finns care about random strangers more than Americans do, she says, it's just that Finns don't ask questions they don't really want the answers to.

COORDINATOR'S CORNER

General Coordinators Respond to NLRB Allegations and Demystify the Coop's Management Structure

By Ann Herpel on behalf of the General Coordinators

We want to update Coop members on the outcome of the National Labor Relations Board case that we initially reported in the May 23, 2019, Linewaiters' Gazette. Please see the May 23 Coordinators' Corner in the Gazette archives on foodcoop.com to follow the history of this issue.

In light of recent media reports incorrectly characterizing the allegations covered by the settlement agreement, I want to emphasize all fifteen allegations that concerned retaliation were deemed without merit by the NLRB. Therefore, the settlement agreement that the Coop and the Retail, Wholesale and Department Store Union signed did not involve those particular grievances.

At the August General Meeting, I presented the following statement during our Coordinators' report time.

General Coordinators' Statement on the Settlement of the NLRB Case

On April 23, 2019, the Park Slope Food Coop was notified that a complaint of Unfair Labor Practices had been filed with the National Labor Relations Board (NLRB) against the Coop by the Retail, Wholesale, and Department Store Union (RWDSU) on behalf of some staff members.

The NLRB conducted a three-month investigation and concluded that 15 of the 19 allegations were without merit and were subsequently withdrawn as unfounded. The NLRB investigator determined that the four remaining allegations were potentially founded, but because the Coop did not pursue the option of having a trial in front of a NLRB administrative judge, no evidence was formally presented, and no finding of guilt was made. The NLRB made no decision on the merits of those four allegations, or in other words, made no determination of guilt.

The Coop entered into a Settlement Agreement on July 31, 2019, and the case is now resolved.

The Settlement Agreement includes a non-admission clause and makes clear that:

1. The Coop did not admit any violation.

2. That the case was resolved with no trial.

3. Both parties, i.e., the Coop and the Retail, Wholesale, and Department Store Union, agreed to this result.

The GCs did not take the decision to settle lightly, but we determined it was in the best interest of the Coop to avoid the cost and burden of a trial.

The Coop has complied with the requirements of the Settlement Agreement including distributing to the staff a "Notice to Employees."

The General Coordinators respect the rights of Coop members to express their opinion on the issue of unionization, but we must weigh those opinions against the wishes of the large number of paid staff who expressed strong reservations about the terms of the Labor Neutrality Agreement and the General Coordinators signing it as written. For this reason, the General Coordinators have not decided to sign the LNA.

The General Coordinators recognize the right of any group of people to form legal associations to meet their collective needs and support their mutual benefit. This includes the right of Coop employees to choose to organize or join a union in the workplace. We have adopted and strongly maintain a neutral position on the efforts to organize a union, and we support the employees as they work together to discuss the issues of concern to them. The GCs have consistently affirmed that exploration of a union is legitimate and that we have no intention of interfering.

We will work to ensure that the decision to unionize is an employee decision. Following the cooperative principle of democratic member control, we would like to see that any decision by our staff will be made democratically.

Further Information on Issues Raised at the August General Meeting

A member asked the General Coordinators to publish the organizational structure of the Coop's paid staff. The Coop is organized into two staff groups: General Coordinators and Area Coordinators. There are six General Coordinators, and one of the six, Joe Holtz, also serves as the Coop's General Manager. Our work covers a wide range of responsibilities for Coop operations including finance, human resources and benefits, staff supervision, purchasing, facilities, Membership Office operations, policies, procedures and strategic planning. We work collaboratively with the Area Coordinators to run Coop operations in Receiving/Stocking, Membership Office, Bookkeeping and IT departments.

The Area Coordinator group includes Receiving, Membership, Bookkeeping and IT coordinators. The IT coordinators are salaried employees who make the same annual salary as five of the six General Coordinators. The Receiving, Membership and Bookkeeping coordinators are paid hourly and are supervised directly by four of the six General Coordinators. The Area Coordinators are a large, diverse group of staff members responsible for developing and maintaining the Coop's IT infrastructure and software, purchasing food and store supplies, running our accounts payable department, training and supporting member-workers, assisting Squad Leaders, implementing Coop membership policies and keeping the Coop humming along, to name a few of their areas of responsibility.

The Coop's paid staff structure and organization is defined in the Coop's bylaws and General Meeting decisions; the bylaws name the General Coordinators as the "Chief Administrative Officers." To understand the Coop's policies, procedures and structure, please see the Coop bylaws, General Meeting reports in the Gazette and the Membership Manual.

Finally, the discussion about the proposed amendment to the Coop's retirement policy at the August GM revealed that many members are confused about the Coop's work-exempt policies, in particular the disability policy. Please visit the Membership Office, which is open Monday through Saturday, if you are unclear about any Coop policies or if you want to know if the Coop has a policy that could apply to your situation. In our experience, Coop lore or word-of-mouth channels are not reliable sources. Let us help you make the most of your Coop membership, especially when life circumstances arise that fit our exceptions to the work requirement. ■

Hearing Officer Committee SEEKS NEW MEMBERS

The Hearing Office Committee is seeking new members. The committee conducts and presides over disciplinary hearings, ensures that hearings proceed in an efficient and unbiased manner and, after a randomly selected Deciding Group has decided whether an accused member violated a Coop rule, determines what disciplinary action should be taken against the member. Applicants should be Coop members in good standing for at least two years and have good attendance records. Judicial, arbitration, or legal backgrounds a plus, but not required. Experience running meetings is desirable.

Members of the committee meet and earn workslot credit on an as-needed basis only, that is, when hearings are required. Therefore these members must maintain regular Coop workslots in good standing or be FTOP members in good standing.

The nature of the committee's work requires that all members maintain strict confidentiality with respect to all matters on which they work. The committee seeks an applicant pool that reflects the diversity of the Coop membership at large.

Those interested, please telephone
Marian Hertz of the Hearing Officer Committee at 212-440-2743.

Climate Wednesdays: Solutions for a Cooler Brooklyn

By Mimi Bluestone

July was the hottest month on record. In August, fires in the Amazon burned out of control. But September promises something different: a world of people demanding action on the climate crisis. Students have led the way, and now adults in countries spanning the globe plan to join them in the biggest climate strike yet, planned for September 20. Meanwhile, New York climate activists are preparing for the UN Secretary General's Climate Action Summit on September 23.

Leading up to all this, 350Brooklyn and the Brooklyn Public Library will launch a new monthly series called "Climate Wednesdays: Solutions for a Cooler Brooklyn." These eight evenings, each devoted to a different aspect of the crisis, begin on Wednesday, September 18, at 7:00 p.m. and will run through May 2020. The series is based on the conviction that as more of us learn about concrete local actions that can help counter the climate emergency, we will stop feeling helpless and start building the collective strength needed to bring massive change.

The Fall 2019 Climate Wednesdays series begins with "The Big Green Picture: Local Strategies for a Livable Planet" on September 18 and continues on October 16 with "Smart Energy: Heating, Cooling and Turning the Lights On." On November 20, the series will present "Parenting in the Age of Climate Change." The Fall series concludes with "Green New Meal: The Food-Climate Connection" on December 11.

The September 18 event, "The Big Green Picture," will chart both climate progress and the challenges we face in treating this problem. Our city and state are setting the pace with historic laws aimed at reducing greenhouse gas emissions from buildings, cars and industry. Yet the fossil fuel industry keeps rolling out new pipelines and other infrastructure intended to lock us in for at least a generation. And some communities bear a much heavier burden than others. What's been achieved, and where do we go from here?

Panelist Lisa DiCaprio, an NYU associate professor and NYC Sierra Club Conservation chair, will offer an overview of city, state and national legislation on climate. Environmental justice journalist Yessenia Funes will examine the disproportionate impact of climate change and environmental degradation on communities of color. Kim Frazcek, who directs the Sane Energy Project, will map out the spread of new fracked gas infrastructure across our state and the movement to end this buildout and to promote renewable energy. Our moderator will be 350Brooklyn co-leader Sara Gronim, a 40-year resident of Brooklyn and a historian who studies the history of people's relationships with the natural world.

The October 16 forum on "Smart Energy" will look at the outsized role that so-called "natural" gas plays in our lives, whether for heating, cooking or generating electricity. This fuel is essentially methane, an extremely potent greenhouse gas. It's time for a transition to renewable electricity sources and the adoption of heat pumps and other modern, clean and efficient technologies for heating and cooling. Panelists will look at city and state policies that can accelerate this switch on a large scale. This panel will also highlight some local projects that demonstrate how this could work.

How should parents talk with children about climate change? How can parents learn to handle their own emotions surrounding this complicated issue? "Parenting in the Age of Climate Change" on November 20 will provide solid ideas and resources that parents can use immediately to help build a greener future. This panel will include a representative of 350Brooklyn Families, a 350Brooklyn sub-group made up of parents of young children.

On December 11, "Green New Meal: The Food-Climate Connection" will examine a topic close to the hearts of Coop members: How does our current food system affect the climate, and how does climate change affect the quality and availability of food? What methods and policies can protect both the climate and the food supply? And who's farming in Brooklyn?

LINEWAITERS' GAZETTE

The Linewaiters' Gazette is published biweekly by the Park Slope Food Coop, Inc., 782 Union Street, Brooklyn, New York 11215, 718-622-0560. Opinions expressed here may be solely the views of the writer. The Gazette will not knowingly publish articles that are racist, sexist or otherwise discriminatory.

The Gazette welcomes Coop-related articles and letters from members.

SUBMISSION GUIDELINES

The Gazette will not knowingly publish letters, articles or reports that are hateful, racist, sexist, otherwise discriminatory, inflammatory or needlessly provocative.

The Gazette welcomes Coop-related articles, letters and committee reports from members that follow the published guidelines and policies. The following is a summary—please see the detailed guidelines for each type of submission on the Coop website: www.foodcoop.com.

All submissions must include author's name, phone number and e-mail address, conform to the following guidelines and to the Fairness, Anonymity and Respect policies. Editors will reject letters, articles and reports that do not follow the guidelines or policies. Submission deadlines appear each edition in the Coop Calendar section.

For topics that generate a large number of submissions (letters or Member Articles) serially and continuously over an extended period of time, the Gazette will not necessarily publish all submissions, but the editors will use their editorial discretion to select a small number of submissions (whether letters or Member Articles) from each side as representative of that viewpoint of the issue. The selected submissions will also adhere to the current guidelines of civil discourse and should serve to advance the discussion in new ways.

You may submit via e-mail to GazetteSubmissions@psfc.coop.

Letters: Maximum 500 words.

Voluntary Articles: Maximum 750 words. A Voluntary Article is held to a higher standard than a letter and must meet at least the following criteria: A Voluntary Article must analyze the topic it is discussing; it must present accurate, verifiable corroboration for factual assertions; it can criticize but not attack Coop practices and personnel; if critical it must present positive solutions; it cannot be solely or mainly opinion. It must strive to make a positive contribution to the understanding of the reader on a topic. If a submitted Voluntary Article is substantially opinion, it must be re-submitted, under 500 words, as a Letter to the Editor, possibly to a future issue. Editors will reject articles that are essentially just advertisements for member businesses, those of family and friends of members, solely expressions of opinion or that do not follow the guidelines and policies.

Committee Reports: Maximum 1,000 words. Reports must follow the published guidelines and policies.

LETTERS, ARTICLES AND REPORTS SUBMISSION POLICIES

Letters must be the opinion of the letter-writer and can contain no more than 25% non-original writing.

All submissions must be written by the writer. Letters or articles that are form letters, chain letters, template letters or letters prepared by someone other than the submitting member will be rejected.

Letters, articles and reports must adhere to the Fairness, Anonymity and Respect policies. They cannot be hateful, needlessly inflammatory, discriminatory libelous, personal attacks or make unsubstantiated claims or accusations or be contrary to the values of the Coop as expressed in our mission statement.

All submissions must be legible, intelligible, civil, well and concisely written with accurate, attributed, easily verifiable statements of facts separated from opinions.

Letter and article writers are limited to one letter or article per issue.

Letter and article writers cannot write gratuitous serial submissions. Editors may reject submissions to consecutive editions of the Gazette on the same topic by the same writer.

Editor-Writer Guidelines: All submissions will be reviewed and, if necessary, edited or rejected by the editor. Writers are responsible for the factual content of their stories. Editors must make a reasonable effort to contact and communicate with writers regarding any questions or proposed editorial changes. Writers must be available to editors to confer about their submissions. If a writer does not respond to requests for editorial changes, the editor may make the changes without conferring with the writer, or reject the submission. If agreement between the writer and the editor about changes does not occur after a first revision, the editor may reject the submission, and the writer may revise and resubmit for a future issue.

FAIRNESS, ANONYMITY AND RESPECT POLICIES

In order to provide fair, comprehensive, factual coverage:

Fairness

1. The Gazette will not publish hearsay—that is, allegations not based on the author's first-hand observation.

2. Nor will we publish accusations that are unnecessary, not specific or are not substantiated by factual assertions. The Gazette will not publish gratuitous personalization. That is, no unnecessary naming of Coop members in polemical letters and articles. Writers must address ideas not persons.

3. Submissions that make substantive accusations against specific individuals, necessary to make the point of the submission and within the Fairness, Anonymity and Respect policies will be given to those persons to enable them to write a response, and both submissions and response will be published simultaneously. This means that the original submission may not appear until the issue after the one for which it was submitted.

Anonymity

Unattributed letters will not be published unless the Gazette knows the identity of the writer, and therefore must be signed when submitted (giving phone number). Such letters will be published only where a reason is given to the editor as to why public identification of the writer would impose an unfair burden of embarrassment or difficulty. Such letters must relate to Coop issues and avoid any non-constructive, non-cooperative language.

Respect

Submissions to the Gazette must not be hateful, racist, sexist, otherwise discriminatory, inflammatory or needlessly provocative. They may not be personally derogatory or insulting, even when strongly criticizing an individual member's actions.

The Gazette is a collaboration among Coop members. When submitting, please consider the impact of your words on the writers, editors and production staff who use our limited workslot time to try to produce an informative and cooperative publication that reflects the values of our Coop community.

ALL ABOUT THE
GENERAL MEETING

Our Governing Structure

From our inception in 1973 to the present, the open monthly General Meetings have been at the center of the Coop's decision-making process. Since the Coop incorporated in 1977, we have been legally required to have a Board of Directors. The Coop continued the tradition of General Meetings by requiring the Board to have open meetings and to receive the advice of the members at General Meetings. The Board of Directors, which is required to act legally and responsibly, has approved almost every General Meeting decision at the end of every General Meeting. Board members are elected at the Annual Meeting in June. Copies of the Coop's bylaws are available on foodcoop.com and at every General Meeting.

Next Meeting: Tuesday,
September 24, 7:00 p.m.

The General Meeting is held on the last Tuesday of each month.

Location

John Jay Educational Campus, 227 Seventh Ave., between Fourth and Fifth Sts.

How to Place an Item on the Agenda

If you have something you'd like discussed at a General Meeting, please complete a submission form for the Agenda Committee. Forms are available in the rack near the Coop Community Corner bulletin board, on foodcoop.com, and at General Meetings. Instructions and helpful information on how to submit an item appear on the submission form. The Agenda Committee meets on the first Tuesday of each month to plan the agenda for the GM held on the last Tuesday of the month. If you have a question, please call Ann Herpel at the Coop.

Meeting Format

- Warm Up (7:00 p.m.) • Submit Open Forum items • Explore meeting literature
Open Forum (7:15 p.m.) Open Forum is a time for members to bring brief items to the General Meeting. If an item is more than brief, it can be submitted to the Agenda Committee as an item for a future GM.
Reports (7:30 p.m.) • Financial Report • Coordinators' Report • Committee Reports
Agenda (8:00 p.m.) The agenda is posted on foodcoop.com and may also appear elsewhere in this issue.
Wrap Up (9:30-9:45) • Meeting evaluation • Board of Directors vote • Announcements, etc.

Attend a GM
and Receive Work Credit

Since the Coop's inception in 1973, the General Meeting has been our decision-making body. At the General Meeting (GM) members gather to make decisions and set Coop policy. The General-Meeting-for-workslot-credit program was created to increase participation in the Coop's decision-making process.

Following is an outline of the program.

- Advance Sign-up required:
To be eligible for workslot credit, you must sign-up at foodcoop.com. A computer dedicated to sign-ups is located in the elevator lobby. You may sign up for the meeting all month long, until 5 p.m. of the day of the meeting.
Some restrictions to this program do apply. Please see below for details.
- Two GM attendance credits per year:
Each member may take advantage of the GM-for-workslot-credit program two times per calendar year.
- Attend the entire GM:
In order to earn workslot credit you must be present for the entire meeting.
- Signing in at the Meeting:
After the meeting, the Workslot Credit Attendance Sheets will be available to sign in.

Park Slope Food Coop
Mission Statement

The Park Slope Food Coop is a member-owned and operated food store—an alternative to commercial profit-oriented business. As members, we contribute our labor: working together builds trust through cooperation and teamwork and enables us to keep prices as low as possible within the context of our values and principles. Only members may shop, and we share responsibilities and benefits equally. We strive to be a responsible and ethical employer and neighbor. We are a buying agent for our members and not a selling agent for any industry. We are a part of and support the cooperative movement.

We offer a diversity of products with an emphasis on organic, minimally processed and healthful foods. We seek to avoid products that depend on the exploitation of others. We support non-toxic, sustainable agriculture.

We respect the environment. We strive to reduce the impact of our lifestyles on the world we share with other species and future generations. We prefer to buy from local, earth-friendly producers. We recycle. We try to lead by example, educating ourselves and others about health and nutrition, cooperation and the environment.

We are committed to diversity and equality. We oppose discrimination in any form. We strive to make the Coop welcoming and accessible to all and to respect the opinions, needs and concerns of every member. We seek to maximize participation at every level, from policy making to running the store.

We welcome all who respect these values.

Item 4: TerraCycle Squad: Budget Renewal - April 2019 - end of March 2020 (30 minutes)

Discussion: Coop members have been making use of our TerraCycle collections, especially our ZeroWaste soft plastics. In order to continue this successful and popular program, which has more and more users each month, we need to renew our budget. In May 2017 we were approved for $6000 for 1 year. In March 2018 we were approved for $12,000. In March 2019, we requested $20,000 and the vote did not pass. At the Sept 2019 meeting, we plan to request only $5000 for this budget period (4/19-3/20). The combination of a new shipping system and cash donations from members brings our costs way down.

Film Night: Knock Down the House

When tragedy struck her family in the midst of the financial crisis, Bronx-born Alexandria Ocasio-Cortez had to work double shifts in a restaurant to save her home from foreclosure. After losing a loved one to a preventable medical condition, Amy Vilela didn't know what to do with the anger she felt about America's broken health care system. Cori Bush was drawn into the streets when the police shooting of an unarmed black man brought protests and tanks into her neighborhood. Paula Jean Swearengin was fed up with watching her friends and family suffer and die from the environmental effects of the coal industry. At a moment of historic volatility in American politics, these four women decide to fight back, setting themselves on a journey that will change their lives and their country forever. Without political experience or corporate money, they build a movement of insurgent candidates challenging powerful incumbents in Congress. Their efforts result in a legendary upset. Doug Anderson is a Brooklyn-based director, producer, and sound engineer. Safe Food Committee Film Night: A Prayer for Compassion

A Prayer for Compassion follows Thomas Jackson on a quest across America to ask, "Can people who identify as religious or spiritual come to embrace the call to include all human and nonhuman beings in our circle of respect and caring and love?" Wordsprouts: All the Restaurants in New York

A joyful hardcover ode to New York City's favorite eateries, published by Abrams this Spring. All the Restaurants in New York collects John Donohue's charming drawings for the first time. From Minetta Tavern to Frankies 457 Spuntino and River Café, the book features an eclectic mix of 101 iconic restaurants and includes many drawings that have never been published before. Sprinkled throughout the pages are interviews with owners, chefs, and loyal patrons of these much-loved restaurants. This is the first book in a three-book series from Abrams, with Paris and London coming soon. The book is based on Donohue's website All the Restaurants (www.alltherestaurants.com), where he sells signed, limited-edition prints to people all over the country and the world. "If you know someone who's wild for a special New York restaurant, this is the perfect present," the critic Ruth Reichl said. Donohue, a former editor at The New Yorker and erstwhile cartoonist for the magazine, is a self-taught artist. In 2011, he edited Man with a Pan: Culinary Adventures of Fathers Who Cook for Their Families, a best-selling anthology featuring recipes and essays from Mark Bittman, Stephen King, Mark Kurlansky, Jim Harrison, and many others. He launched www.alltherestaurants.com in 2017, and he draws at least twice per day. And he takes requests. WordSprouts' Sarah Schenck will moderate a free-wheeling conversation with Donohue. Delectable tidbits will be served! Free for all Coop members & non-members. Refreshments will be served. Bookings: Sarah Schenck, wordsproutspfc@gmail.com.

TOWARDS AN LGBTQ-FRIENDLY COOP: GENDER PRONOUNS*MEMBERS,

Alternative gender pronouns, such as they/them, have become more widely accepted in recent years. As a way to be more inclusive and LGBTQ-friendly, I'm writing to suggest that the Coop encourage members to (gently) ask each other's pronouns, and consider defaulting to "they/them" when unsure how to refer to others. For many queer/trans people, being referred to automatically with a gendered pronoun can be jarring, and even unsettling. Often, people assume gender based on outside appearances; but this is subjective, and it's easy to misinterpret someone's identity.

Park Slope was lovingly referred to as "Dyke Slope," in the 1980s/90s. The neighborhood has a historically strong LGBTQ presence, then and now. Embracing pronouns is only one way to acknowledge our queer community members, and offer everyone the opportunity to be themselves.

Sincerely,
Elvis Bakaitis

PLEASE DON'T ADOPT ME AS YOUR CAUSETO THE EDITOR,

On a recent weekend, a flyer was offered to people entering the Coop. Here is the first sentence of its text: "Earlier this summer, PSFC staff partnered with the Retail, Wholesale and Department Store Union (RWDSU) to file formal Unfair Labor Practice charges with the National Labor Relations Board against the PSFC management." The word staff here implies wide agreement on the subject among Coop employees, but by my count, there are a maximum of 14 out of a total of 66 of us, or 21%, who partnered with the RWDSU on this initiative.

If more than 50% of us staff members wanted to pursue joining the RWDSU, we would have voted on it, per labor law. But the majority of us have decided that joining the RWDSU is not what we want at this point. Many of us have experienced great agony over this decision, because of being politically pro-union. But speaking only for myself, I can say that the RWDSU representatives have not convinced me that they can offer a better deal than what I already have.

The flyer solicits signatures to a petition demanding that the Coop's management sign what is called a neutrality agreement—an agreement that management will not interfere with staff's unionization efforts. Members who visit the Coop's website know that the General Coordinators already support our right to unionize; what members may not know is that most staff members have agreed that the GCs should not sign any such neutrality agreement, judging it unnecessary.

What members also may not know is that, at a meeting attended by most of the staff, a union representative threatened that if the GCs did not sign the neutrality agreement, the union would file charges with the NLRB. Several of us said, "Bring it on. If there have been labor law violations here, we want to know about it." Subsequently, the union filed 19 charges; 15 were later withdrawn as "unfounded."

With regard to the remaining four charges, there was a Settlement Agreement, described in a handout from the GCs at the last General Meeting. To quote, "Both parties, i.e., the Coop and the Retail, Wholesale, and Department Store Union, agreed to this result." The fact that the union agreed to the settlement tells me that they believe their case isn't strong enough to win.

I don't know how this will end. Staff members realize how few of us support this particular unionization effort, but no formal vote will occur, it seems, until 50% of us want to unionize, so I guess the issue will just linger indefinitely. In the meantime, I would like to emphasize that this decision rests solely with staff. I appreciate that some pro-union members want us to enjoy a good workplace, but only we know what that workplace is like. You witness fragments of it. My message is: Please don't adopt me as your cause.

the on-going debate about the extent to which the PSFC is a business and the extent to which we are a community.

Think this through as a philosophical challenge, and an ethical one. Competing versions of the Coop's evolution claim authority as 'the way we do it here' because we have no official written history. Early GM minutes recorded debates. Recent minutes have been skeletal. Gazette reports are better, though often incomplete.

This debate was not about whether the Coop can afford $3,800 and 20 work shifts for 450 members to see SWEAT, a Pulitzer-winning play by Brooklynite Lynn Nottage, for free. The play is about what happened to unionized workers in Reading, Pennsylvania (2000 to 2008) when their factory was closed and moved to Mexico. The debate was about whether the Coop use money for that. Opponents repeated that the event would not enhance the functioning of the store selling food, implying that the proposal was outside of the business of the Coop.

ITES was approved as a permanent squad after two years of probation at the April 2017 GM. Squads studying the environment, GMO labeling, food safety and labor have been created to educate ourselves and others, acknowledging that making intelligent decisions depends upon being well-informed, and that buying food involves multiple factors, some of which are contaminated by the profit motive of the seller not prioritizing the well-being of consumers nor workers.

Offering quarterly public forums as per ITES' founding mission, the squad has hosted discussions featuring researchers, professors, journalists and activists about how international trade affects us all. At the beginning of the ITES presentation a sea of hands were raised when asked who wanted to see the play. The chair didn't allow a final response by the presenter of the proposal.

The Trump administration is now pressing congress hard to pass the NAFTA2/USMCA this year. The Citizen's Trade Campaign insists upon enforceable protection of workers' rights and the environment as well as eliminating the expansion of patent protections for drugs.

SEPT 20 GLOBAL STUDENT STRIKE FOR CLIMATE— JOIN THEM!

MEMBERS,

Youth all over the world are leaving school and striking on Friday, Sept. 20, demanding that the UN and governments on every level act boldly and quickly on addressing the climate crisis. Youth are demanding a future for themselves and they know that their future looks pretty grim at this point.

According to the Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change, a relatively conservative body of scientists, Planet Earth has 11 years to move significantly toward the goal of 100% renewable energy, get off fossil fuels and create an economy that is de-carbonized. 2050 would be the furthest out for transition to 100%. There are lots of proposals out there, including the Green New Deal, that roll out ideas on how to do just that. The GND would bring social justice to that process by creating millions of good new jobs, especially for people most affected by the climate crisis, e.g., communities dealing with climate disasters and pollution and fossil fuel workers. All the earlier predictions on the speed with which the climate crisis would unfold have turned out to be under-estimations. It's getting worse faster than we thought. We must act now to slow down the present climate crisis, shift our practices and protect the earth and all its species.

You can help raise the demand for bold, quick climate action by joining the Sept. 20 Global Student Strike for Climate. The UN is holding a climate summit right here in NYC on Sept. 23 so New Yorkers have the opportunity and the responsibility to make the NYC actions on Sept. 20 the largest and most powerful possible. If you are a parent, this is a great opportunity to bring your child to a non-violent protest to show them that there are millions of people around the world who want to see a green future. If you are a teacher, you could encourage your students to attend the march and rallies on that day. You could talk with the teachers in your school to see how you can support your students if they want to participate in the Youth Climate Strike and you could come too. While this is an event that is led by youth, ALL adults are urged to attend.

assistance to existing and new worker coops in all communities within the metropolitan area, with a focus on marginalized communities.

We see ourselves as part of a broad labor movement that uses different tools and strategies for workers' rights. We believe that consumer cooperatives like the PSFC should do everything in their power to ensure all workers have dignity, respect, and full democratic participation in decision-making and that a union is a proven and strong structure for this goal. This is true for workers at conventional businesses and for workers who own their businesses cooperatively.

Many worker coops have chosen to unionize in order to create a framework to look out for the rights of workers and to provide a balance of perspectives when facing the pressures of running a business. We know a union is an important means to provide support when inevitable conflict emerges, to create clear accountability structures, and to empower workers to have a collective voice. For instance, Cooperative Home Healthcare Associates, the largest worker coop in the country based here in NY, is unionized and several smaller worker-owned businesses have chosen to unionize as well. Unionizing also has important benefits beyond any individual cooperative, affecting non-union workers by influencing and putting upward pressure on standards at an industry level.

As a consumer cooperative with a large working member component, the PSFC is a very visible model of successful cooperation and has the power and responsibility to model the best of the cooperative movement. Forming a PSFC staff union is an advancement of the PSFC's mission "to maximize participation at every level, from policy making to running the store" and an important shift to workplace democracy. We know that organizational development can be challenging and are here to assist with connections to educational and technical resources and the experience of members in our networks.

We support the Park Slope Food Coop union organizing and are happy to join with you in the fight for fair treatment for all workers across New York City.
